Be Careful of your Words.

Words are the signs of our ideas. They give joy or sorrow according to the manner in which they are spoken .-Words of kindness fall like music on the listening ear, while angry words make discord, and are the cause of many unpleasant feelings.

Be careful of your words. If some things are said which do not please you, will it help the matter to show your displeasure by adding "dry fuel to the fire already so hot," too hot to stir up with angry words? Words are remembered when the tongue that uttered them is silent in death, and how pleasant it would be for any of us, could we live, do right, and not offend in word. "If any man offend not in word, the same is a perfect man, and able also to bridle the whole body." Perhaps nothing is so difficult to govern as the tongue. How unruly! No man can tame it. How rapidly it runs; but too often "like a race horse, the faster it goes, the less weight it carries." The words which fall in haste, often do mischief, like a spark touching powder, a report is heard, and many are inquiring about the meaning of the story. Words should never he used to encourage wrong doing; but we should use them in pleading for the suffering, and in persuading the doubting to walk in the

THE OLD COTTAGE CLOCK.

Oh, the old, old clock, of the household stock, Was the brightest thing and neatest; Its hands, though old, had a touch of gold, And its chime rang still the sweetest; Twas a monitor, too, though its words were few, Yet they lived, though nations altered; And its voice, still strong, warned old and young, When the voice of friendship faltered!-

Tick, tick, it said, quick, quick, to bed; For ten I've given warning:-Up, up-and go-or else, you know,

You'll never rise soon in the morning. A friendly voice was that old, old clock, As it stood in the corner smiling, And blessed the time, with a merry chime, The wintry hours beguiling:-

But a cross old voice was that tiresome clock As it called at daybreak holdly, When the dawn looked gray, o'er the misty way And the early air blew coldly!--

Tick, tick, it said; quick, out of bed, For five I've given warning; You'll never have health, you'll never get wealth,

Unless you're up soon in the morning! Still hourly the sound goes round and round, With a tune that ceases never;

While tears are shed for the bright days fled, And the old friends lost forever! Its heart beat on-though hearts are gone That warmer beat and younger; Its hands still move-though hands we love

Are clasped on earth no longer! Tick, tick, it said-to the churchyard bed: The Grave hath given warning: Up-up-and rise to the angel skies-And enter a heavenly morning!
